FINAL OK OF NEEDY RELIEF PROGRAM NEAR

Only Adjustment of House and Senate Differences Needed for Completion.

TO YIELD 8 1-2 MILLIONS

Beer Tax Cut Approved; Levy on Amusement Admissions Passed by Senate.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O. Aug. 18—Adjustment of differences between the senate and house was all that remained today to complete enactment of Governor White's program to raise $8,500,000 annually for needy relief. The points of disagreement will be taken up Tuesday.

Heeding a special message from the governor asking that they "repair the damage" the senate last night passed the entire program, removing a house amendment to the amusement admissions tax which threatened to take from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 from the annual income.

Only one of the three bills in the program—taxing malt syrup at 10 cents a pound and brewers wort at 10 cents a gallon—is ready for the governor's signature.

The bill passed both branches without amendment.

Beer Tax Cut

The bill cutting the cap tax on bottled beer and beverages retailing at more than five cents to one cent a bottle and raising the barrel tax on beer from $1 to $1.50 was passed by both branches but must go back to the house for approval of a senate amendment permitting the sale of one bottle or more to persons for consumption off the premises.

The one bottle amendment was inserted by Senator William Herner, Democrat, of Huron county, who said the existing law requiring the purchase of six or more bottles at a time was a hardship on the "working man."

On the amusement tax of 10 per cent, the senate not only heeded the governor's special message to restore the limitations or seek added funds elsewhere, but removed all exemptions. The house amendment had raised exemptions of the agreed bill submitted by the special joint taxation committee from 15 to 25 cents. Amendments seeking to raise the exemption to 40 cents were voted down.

Estimates Revenue

Carlton S. Dargusch, tax commissioner, estimated the beer barrel and beverage and beer cap tax, the latter at one cent a bottle, and the malt syrup and wort taxes, will yield $4,000,000 annually.

An income of $4,500,000 annually was expected from the amusements tax with a 15 cents exemption as contemplated by the committee and from the 10 per cent tax on cosmetics.

The amusement and cosmetic tax bill also carried a provision authorizing counties to issue bonds for poor relief purposes to be retired from the excise taxes.

House leaders have indicated they are dissatisfied with the senate amendments to the amusement and beer bills.

White Sends Message

After the house passed the program and recessed until Tuesday, Governor White rushed a special message to the senate calling attention to the increase of the exemption of amusement admissions and urging them to correct the situation.

"I sincerely trust that your body will repair this damage and restore the act to the form as presented by your joint committee or additional sources of revenue be called upon to supply the deficiency," the governor said in calling attention to his message at the opening of the session in which he fixed the minimum needs at $9,000,000 annually.

"The people of the state of Ohio look to you for immediate action; the exhaustion of relief funds is near at hand, in the name of the people of the state of Ohio, I ask you for immediate and constructive action."

30 SEEK U. S. LOANS FOR $60,000 HERE

Drake Reports on Activities for First Week; 300 Get Information.

Thirty applications for loans totaling $60,000 have been received by the Marion sub-division office of the Ohio Home Owners' Loan corporation since operation started a week ago, Henry P. Drake, agent, announced.

More than 300 person have called at the local office to get information regarding the loans. Those eligible were given blanks on which mortgagees are to give consent to accept bonds of the corporation.

After a general rush during the first three or four days after the office was opened, there has been a decrease in the number of persons seeking interviews.

A statement coming from the Columbus headquarters of the corporation says that at least 30 days would be required to complete appraisals on the properties after applications have been made.

In 1932 Mayor Kelly paid the government $70,000 tax and $35,000 penalty. (International News photo).

Chautauqua Hall To Be Scene of Gala Ceremony.

PARADE PLANNED

Washington D. C. Man and Congressman Will Be Speakers.

The Chautauqua pavilion in Garfield park will be the scene of Marion's NRA jubilee Wednesday night, members of the local NRA campaign committee decided last night in a meeting in the Marion Chamber of Commerce offices.

A parade from city hall on West Center street to the pavilion will assemble at 7 p. m., half an hour before the start of the program. The parade will consist of a number of bands and an automobile caravan made up of citizens who have agreed to cooperate with the government's recovery measures.

Washington Man To Speak

Paced with martial music, the cars which are to be decorated with NRA emblems, flags and bunting will proceed through the business district, on to the park where a speaker from Washington D. C. will give the administration's viewpoints on NRA aims.

The name of the Washington speaker has not yet been announced but it is known he will represent the national headquarters of the NRA movement.

Brooks Fletcher, Eighth district congressman, also will speak and will introduce the speaker of the evening Mayor W. C. Phillians, chairman of the local NRA committee, will preside.

Urgent requests were made by committee members that all citizens who have complied with the NRA, join in the parade and attend the meeting. Plans of forming the parade at city hall are yet to be mapped out. Decorations such as will be used on the cars also will be used on the pavilion stage.

J. W. Llewellyn and E. L. Hill were named by Mayor Phillians as parade marshals. C. F. Bronson was named to select bands for the occasion and Sherman Haldeman as speakers' chairman.

Local Insurance Agents Completing Plans for Sessions Next Week.

TWO DAY CONVENTION

National Association Officers To Attend from Three States.

Local insurance men will be busy this week-end making last minute plans for the thirty-seventh annual convention of the Ohio Association of Insurance Agents, which will convene here Wednesday for a two-day meeting.

Committeemen expect an attendance of between 500 and 700, including wives and members of the families of many of the delegates.

Attending delegates will represent a cross-section of the country with the entire state sending representatives in addition to national association officers from Massachusetts, Michigan and Alabama.

Headquarters at Hotel

Hotel Harding will be the headquarters for the delegates, with the sessions to be held in the third floor auditorium of the Eagles building.

Local committeemen are receiving aid from the Marion Chamber of Commerce and the Marion Auto club in obtaining automobiles for taking guests over the city and in other respects.

Registration at Hotel Harding Wednesday at 5:30 a. m. will be the opening event, followed by the first session. Other sessions will follow that afternoon and Thursday morning and afternoon.

Wednesday night the delegates will entertain at a "get-together"

JOHNSON AMENDS RESTAURANT CODE

Places Restriction on Provision Permitting Charge for Meals of Employes.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—To block possible evasions of the President's re-employment agreement, Hugh S. Johnson today ordered a modification of the restaurant industry agreement to prohibit owners from charging employes for meals.

Johnsons' order, as given out through the administration's policy board, said:

"It has come to the attention of the policy board that charging for meals was not a common practice in the restaurant industry prior to the passage of the national industry recovery act.

"This being so, we consider it an effort to evade the minimum wage provisions and a subterfuge to frustrate the spirit and intent of the President's reemployment agreement for a restaurant operator who had not charged his employes for meals prior to June 16th, 1933, to charge for them now."

The wage section of the agreement now reads: "The minimum rates and wages established in section 6 shall not be subject to reduction for meals furnished employes unless such was the practice in the restaurant prior to June 16, 1933, and if such was the case the charge shall not exceed .20 cents per meal nor $4 total in any one week."

2 BUS LINES BEGIN SERVICE

To Replace C., D. & M. in Providing Prospect and Radnor Transportation.

FOUR ROUND TRIPS DAILY

Schedules Temporary Until Final Hearing Sept. 20 by Utilities Board.

Transportation facilities for Prospect and Radnor will be provided by two bus companies when the C., D. & M. interurban line discontinues operation Monday night. The new schedules are effective today.

Temporary schedules through these two towns between Marion and Delaware were announced today by the Marion-Lima Transit Co., operating between Lima and Columbus by the way of Marion, and Buckeye Stages North, Inc., operating between Sandusky and Columbus.

The new schedules call for four round trips daily through the two towns—two in the morning and two in the afternoon.

The temporary schedules were adopted pending action by the state utilities commission. At the time the two lines were granted permission to operate busses between Marion and Columbus, they were ordered to furnish service to Radnor and Prospect when the C., D. & M. line was abandoned. A final hearing on the schedules will be held Sept. 20 before the state utilities commission, an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus said today.

Provision of the schedules for Radnor and Prospect removed the last stipulation made by the state utilities commission as necessary before the interurban service could be abandoned. Officials of the C., D. & M. today were completing plans for discontinuing interurban service Monday at midnight.

The schedules for the Prospect and Radnor busses follow:

Marion-Lima Transit Co.—Southbound, leave Marion 7:38 a. m. and 11:40 a. m., Prospect 8:01 a. m. and 12:03 p. m., Radnor 8:11 a. m. and 12:13 p. m.; northbound, leave Radnor 11:57 a. m. and 8:42 p. m., Prospect 12:07 p. m. and 8:52 p. m.

Buckeye Stages North—Southbound, leave Marion 7:25 a. m. and 3:05 p. m., Prospect 7:40 a. m. and 3:20 p. m., Radnor 7:49 a. m. and 3:28 p. m.; northbound, leave Radnor 9:11 a. m. and 4:41 p. m. and Prospect 9:30 and 4:50 p. m.

COUNTY TREASURER LIABLE FOR $569,771

Examiner Also Returns Findings Against Two Others in Cleveland.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O. Aug. 19—County Treasurer L. G. Collister was charged today in a report of State Examiner James N. Main with liability for a shortage of $569,771.83. Main traced through three administrations of the Cuyahoga county treasury.

Walter E. Cook and Alex Bernstein, former treasurers, were charged by Main with liabilities of $155,874.45 and $218,261.66 respectively. The finding against Cook was for the amount unaccounted for when he left office Dec. 31, 1928. The amount against Bernstein similarly was unaccounted for on Aug. 31, 1929.

Main did not say where the money went or who took it.

Main's findings were in accord with a legal opinion of Attorney General John W. Bricker, supporting a similar opinion given last December by his predecessor, Gilbert Bettman. They ruled that if a county treasurer used money received in payment of taxes to expunge a shortage which arose in a previous administration, the treasurer and his sureties were liable for the entire shortage caused by this diversion of funds.

Ohio NRA Head To Make Flying Drive on Laggards

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 19—With less than one-third of the state's 322,000 employers under the blue eagle, Miss Mary E. Woods, Ohio recovery board director, completed arrangements today for a flying trip through Ohio to bring laggards into line.

She will carry the message of NRA first to Akron, leaving Cleveland Monday by plane, and arriving in Akron at 8:45 a. m., to be met by Dudley W. Mason, general of the Akron recovery committee, and others.

Temporary Wheat Board Named in Marion County

Gilbert Announces Series of Meetings To Acquaint Farmers With Production Control Plans.

A temporary wheat organization in Marion county has been completed to serve until a county wheat production control committee can be selected, it was announced today by R. H. Gilbert, emergency agricultural assistant for the county.

Meetings in nine communities in the county within the next two weeks were announced, together with temporary committeemen from each community consisting in most cases of two townships.

The first meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 22, at 8:30 p. m. in the Green Camp school building with John Ruth and R. M. White as committeemen. They will represent Green Camp township and that part of Big Island township south of state route No. 95.

To Give Information

Application blanks and all available information about the government's plan to curtail wheat production will be given out at the meetings. No farmers will be asked to sign contracts of agreement at the first meetings, Gilbert said.

Gilbert has scheduled a second series of meetings about two weeks later for those farmers applying for contracts. Those to sign in their applications at the second meeting will also elect permanent representatives, one director and two committeemen from each community, to form the Marion County Wheat Production Control association. This group will then assume full charge of the wheat adjustment program in the county.

Meeting Schedule

The first series of meetings, all at 8:30 p. m., with the temporary committeemen from each community, follow:

Wednesday, Aug. 23, Salt Rock and Grand Prairie townships and that part of Big Island township north of route 95-S, in the Morral school building, I. V. Hile, A. M. Peters, Al. J. Loudensleger and George L. Rogers. Thursday, Aug. 24, Bowling Green and Montgomery townships in the LaRue school building, Cyril Guthery, Frank Montgomery and H. C. Hodson. Friday, Aug. 25, Waldo and Pleasant township in the Bethlehem grange hall, three miles northwest of Waldo, Lawrence Mauk, H. H. Beringer and Levi H. Lukens. Monday, Aug. 28, Richland and Claridon North and South townships in the Claridon school building, E. L. Trout and Ed Gier. Tuesday, Aug. 29, Prospect township at the Prospect school, Sam Lauer and Edward Smith.

Wednesday, Aug. 30, York and Scott townships at the Martel school building, J. L. Shoemaker, W. N. Knowles and N. G. Gibboney. Thursday, Aug. 31, Grand township and that portion of Big Island township west of the Harding Highway and north of state route No. 95 at the Meeker school building, Louis Anderson and H. W. Wiley. Friday, Sept. 1, Marion township at the Marion National bank auditorium, W. T. Owen, temporary township chairman.

PICTURES OF SHANK SEIZED BY SHERIFF

Defense Move To Substantiate "Third Degree" Charge Thwarted.

By The Associated Press

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 19—A defense move to get pictures to bear out a charge that officers beat Mark H. Shank, Akron, O., attorney, accused of killing four persons with poison to force a confession was blocked by the sheriff's department here.

Shank was photographed yesterday in the county jail shortly after the arrival of his wife, attorney, former Judge E. H. Boylan, Rev. J. L. Waldhaisen and Anthony Rock, a friend from Akron.

Sheriff L. B. Branch, in whose custody Shank was placed for safe keeping, immediately ordered the negatives seized on grounds neither he nor authorities of Saline county, which has jurisdiction in the case, authorized the photographs. Officers at Hot Springs, who announced the purported confession, denied force was used.

The next move of the defense was not disclosed but Judge Boylan said a statement would be issued later, indicating Shank would formally repudiate the confession and plead insanity.

Victims of the poisoning, Alvin Colley, a former investigator for Shank, Mrs. Colley and two young sons, were buried after a joint funeral service at Malvern yesterday.

ENGINEER IS FOUND DEAD IN CLEVELAND

Mystery Surrounds Death; Police Baffled by Strange Turn.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 19—James Gray, well known in Cleveland technical and engineering circles, whose body was found with stab wounds in suburban Euclid early today, died of a strong corrosive poison, Deputy Coroner Wilson S. Chamberlin announced after an examination.

Gray's body was found at 6 a. m., by a laborer. An empty wallet near by led police at first to theorize the case as one of robbery.

The man had been stabbed twice in the back, and slashed across the back of the neck, but the deputy coroner said these wounds were insufficient to cause death.

Mrs. Katherine Gray, wife of the dead man, said her husband left home yesterday to go to Adelbarta to seek a position after many months of enforced idleness. His accumulation of savings gone, Gray had planned to hitch-hike his way, she said, with a friend.

The coroner's report was incomplete at noon, but indicated Gray had been dead since 1 a. m. today. Police were entirely at a loss to explain the strange turn in the case.

SHERIFF LEADS CHASE AFTER TRUCK DRIVER

Heads West After Sideswiping Makeshift Bus Near South Bend, Ind.

DEATH LIST MAY GROW

Tragedy Comes To 28 Young People Returning from Trip to World's Fair.

By The Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 19—Six residents of Wakarusa, Ind. and vicinity were killed and ten others injured, several perhaps fatally, early today when a truck converted into a motor-bus in which they were returning from an outing at the Chicago world's fair, was sideswiped and wrecked by another truck near here.

One side was torn off the makeshift bus, which careened wildly down the road, strewing its passengers, dead and injured, for a distance of several hundred feet before it went into a ditch.

The list of dead:

Mrs. Mary Wisler, 38, Gerald Messmor, 17, Kenneth Lechlitner, 16; Wayne Pippinger, 14; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Berkey, 36 and 33, respectively.

All of the dead were from Wakarusa except Messmor whose home was in Leesburg, Ind.

28 in Party

Twenty-eight young people had spent all of Friday at the Century of Progress exposition and were laughing and singing when a heavy truck lumbering along from the opposite direction sideswiped their bus, stopping only a moment after the collision, the other truck speeded on when it was apparent the bus had been badly damaged.

As the dead and injured were being removed Sheriff Walter L. Feagan of St. Joseph county and a score of deputies, South Bend policemen and motorists who volunteered their services, took up pursuit of the fleeing truck, which was Chicago bound.

Among the seriously injured were Imogene Smeltzer, 21, her brother, Wayne Smeltzer, 24, Howard Wisler, young son of the dead woman, all of Wakarusa. Mrs. Omer Overholtzer of Elkhart and Dale Metzler, 12, whose father, Orville Metzler, was driver of the bus.

The accident happened about 4 a. m. (Marion time) as the fair visitors were within a few miles of completing their trip. Wakarusa is about 20 miles southeast of here and the collision occurred about six miles west of here on the Western avenue highway.

Four Killed in Crash at Railway Crossing

By The Associated Press

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 19—Four persons were killed and two others critically injured here early today when an automobile was struck by a Wabash passenger train at a street crossing.

The dead: James R. Gray, 39, Toledo, O.; Mrs. Gray; Nettie Blanche Gray, aged 8, a daughter; Mrs. Ella Thomas, age about 38, of Princeton, Ky.

The injured: Isetta Gray, age 12, daughter, fractured skull and internal injuries, will die, physicians say; Mabel Marie Gray, aged 4, daughter, seriously injured, but some hope for recovery.

The accident occurred about 3:30 a. m. The watchman at the crossing said the occupants of the car apparently failed to heed his signals and drove directly into the path of the train.

STEEL CODE IS COMPLETED

Officials Hope This Will Lead Other Big Industries Under NRA.

OIL AGREEMENT NEARS

Administration Striving To Settle Difficulties With Coal and Auto Trades.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Aug 19 Steel today led America's four biggest industries toward blue eagle membership.

On President Roosevelt's desk needing only his formal approval was a dramatically-obtained wage-and-hour fixing code for giant steel He and national recovery administration officials were hopeful that this would break the jam that also had held coal and oil outside the recovery fold, and speed the pending trade plan for automobile makers

Presidential approval and proclamation of the steel agreement was virtually certain At midnight last night, after his spokesmen concluded six hours of plain talk with steel's representatives the agreement was read to the President over the telephone. Mr. Roosevelt, who had expressed a desire for action on steel, coal and oil before nightfall tonight, approved the compromise

Details Announced

Then Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator announced:

"The agreement reached upon the steel code involves:

"Hours—Average 40-hour week over three months period with maximum per employe of 48 hours and six days per week On or after Nov. 1, 1933, as soon as production reaches 80 per cent capacity, the eight-hour day for all employes, except supervisory, technical and emergency employes.

"Wages—General increase of 15 per cent since July 1. Minimum wages fixed in code are estimated by steel companies to exceed an average of 40 cents per hour. (This results from fact that higher minimum wages than those fixed in the code are paid to large groups of common labor)."

"Code administration and trial period—Code to be effective for 90 days as a trial period to determine effect."

Text Not Disclosed

The text of the revised code itself was not made public immediately, hence it could not be ascertained who had yielded on what. But the code still contained a provision giving employes a right to organize in any manner they chose, and without restraint This though, had not been a recent point of controversy.

Putting oil's completed code in the President's hands was regarded only as a matter of time measured by the necessity of minor revisions in the bulky text. The chief executive himself will direct the federal group administering affairs for this industry.

Recovery officials reflected the while on the head-on clash between the automobile industry and labor over open-shop language contained in the code recommended by a big section of the business in which Henry Ford, however, did not join.

Siding with labor was the contention of Donald Richberg, recovery counsel, that words to "continue the open shop policy" must not be written into the automobile charter.

of the NRA were near completion last night when Mrs Grover C Snyder was directed to launch a county-wide movement

To Name Committees

Mrs Snyder, vice chairman of the local NRA committee in charge of the women's division, is to name 15 standing committees to serve on phases of the campaign The movement will include promotion work in contacting housewives throughout the county and in educational and informational work carried on in various manners.

Meanwhile, signers of NRA compliance certificates continued to increase the list at the Marion postoffice Twenty names were added from yesterday noon until noon today, making a total of 734.

Marion bakery operators have practically unanimously agreed to provisions of the blanket code, it was announced today. Most of the city's principal bakeries filed compliance certificates at the postoffice yesterday afternoon and this morning.

Bakery Code

The bakery code provides, operators said, for a minimum wage for labor of 30 cents an hour a work week of 44 hours, and no reduction in wages of present employes above the minimum wage. Bakery operators said their bakers had been averaging about 54 hours a week.

Postmaster French Crow today received the third list of "honor roll' names from the Cleveland district office of the department of commerce, of Marion citizens cooperating with the programs. The list, containing 109 names of persons and companies, made a total of 516 on file in the Cleveland office. These lists are posted in the postoffice lobby.

Mr Crow reminded all signers of compliance certificates that they also are to sign the President's reemployment agreement and send it to Cleveland district office of the department of commerce.

MAXIM PREPARES TO TAKE OLD JOB

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 — They scratched the name of "J Paul Faraday" from the door of the office of the advertising manager of a national paint concern today. Paul Maxim was back.

Maxim, 25-year-old youth who six years ago escaped from the Ohio reformatory "honor" camp, said he would return to the job he was forced to leave when police learned of his whereabouts.

With the pardon granted him by Governor White of Ohio in his pocket the former Youngstown boy said he'd forget the name of "Faraday' forever and continue his career under his real name

INCREASE SHOWN IN CARLOADINGS

SON OF ROCKEFELLER UNDER POLICE GUARD

Protection from Kidnapers Seen as Federals Watch Wealthy Youth.

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH, Tex, Aug 19 Winthrop Rockefeller, son of wealth, dined with a Yale classmate here last night while an armed bodyguard remained nearby

The guard had accompanied the 21-year-old son of John D Rockefeller Jr, to Fort Worth from Houston, Tex., where Rockefeller had spent three weeks studying the oil industry. He was with young Rockefeller when he departed at midnight by airplane to return to his New York home. And in making the trip from the airport to the home of his friend, W. H. Slay Jr and returning to the airport, two federal agents, with pistols and a sub-machine gun augmented the bodyguard. The federal men also remained on guard outside the home during dinner.

Young Rockefeller refused to answer any questions relative to the presence of the guards and smiled when asked whether he feared kidnapers.

"They've got them all locked up now, haven't they?' he asked.

'We hope so," a bystander said

"Whew' So do I!" exclaimed Rockefeller.

The federal men said they were 'just riding around'

MISSOURI VOTING ON DRY REPEAL TODAY

By The Associated Press

ST LOUIS, Mo, Aug 19—Prohibition's pros and cons in Missouri, where a number of the world's largest breweries are located, voted today in a referendum on repeal of the Eighteenth amendment

The question doesn't seem to be whether the "show me' state will join the 21 others which already have approved repeal but just how big a majority the wets will pile up in selecting delegates to a state convention, Aug 29

The campaign ended quietly last night, with the dries raising the question of moral issues, and state's rights and Democratic party loyalty being pleaded by the repealists

URSCHEL TAKES UP TARGET PRACTICE

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY Aug 19—A new pastime, target practice has found its way into the daily routine of Charles F Urschel and his associates

The possibility of an attempt at reprisal by friends of men they have helped to arrest and charge with the kidnaping of the Oklahoma oil millionaire has brought about this attention to marksmanship.

Urschel and others close to him seldom are without pistols

"We've brightened up our shooting eyes," said one friend of Urschel "I don't expect any trouble of this sort, but if it comes I'll try mighty hard to get in one lick myself."

WHALEN ANNOUNCES STRIKE SETTLEMENT

60,000 Dressmakers To Resume Jobs in N. Y. Area, Mediator Reports.

By The Associated Press

The blue eagle emitted something like a coo today as it saw strikes giving way to a prospect of industrial peace

Grover A. Whalen, NRA mediator in New York, announced at dawn, after an all night session, that an agreement had been reached in the strike of 60,000 dressmakers in the metropolitan area and that the workers would return to their jobs next week.

Points in the agreement included the right of collective bargaining, a 35-hour week and minimum wage scales representing in general a compromise between union demands and employer offers.

Pear-picking was going on once again in the Santa Clara valley, Calif., after a governor's mediator announced that a strike had been settled with a promise of higher wages.

Western heads of the NRA campaign urged that 5,000 film workers on strike in Hollywood be put back to work and that difficulties be arbitrated later by the NRA labor board.

Agreements to end the walkout of employes of two Pottsville, Pa shirt firms were announced last night in Washington.

COAL PRODUCTION LOW.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—The bituminous coal production fell off nearly one-third in 1932 compared with 1931, reflecting the national decline to the lowest point since 1904, according to figures just made public by the bureau of mines. In 1932, Ohio produced only 13,556,000 tons of coal, while in 1931, the amount was 21,440,000 tons.

Fight Is On

(Will Rogers Special)

WASHINGTON, Aug 19—I been working day and night since almost yesterday with this fellow Johnson on a code for comedians. He claims that senators and congressmen comes under our code I claim theirs is a separate union, that they are professionals, and in a class by themselves, and that us amateur comedians should not be classed with 'em.

I hate to defy this NRA, but I am going to carry my fight to the country, because, according to his code, it would give work to more senators and congressmen, and I claim that's the only thing we don't want any more of.

So it looks like I am really the first one to lock horns with this tough guy, Johnson, but I believe I got the people with me.

Yours

College Official Accused in Death of Wife Scheduled for Trial Aug. 21

By International News Service

SAN JOSE, Cal.—Seldom has a murder trial aroused such intense interest as that which prevails here as the date of the trial of David A. Lamson approaches. Rarely, too, has the sordid business of murder been enacted in such a setting as that which served as a stage for the Lamson mystery—Stanford university campus—which fact, coupled with the social standing of the accused man, is responsible for most of the interest in the case.

Circumstantial Evidence

Lamson, 30-year-old sales manager of the Stanford university press, was taken in custody following the discovery of the body of his beautiful young wife, Aliene, in the bathtub of their home on the university campus, only a few blocks from the home of the former President Hoover, last Memorial day.

Investigation by the authorities disclosed that Mrs. Lamson had been slain by a blow on the head with a heavy instrument and her dead body placed in the bathtub. In the husband's bedroom police came upon a suit of pajamas and a bath robe, identified as Lamson's. These garments bore stains, which resultant analysis proved to be made by blood. A further search among the ashes of a fire Lamson had started in the garden yielded a 10-inch length of iron pipe. Stains on this piece of pipe were analyzed by a police chemist and pronounced to have been caused by human blood. With such an array of facts against him, Lamson's protests of innocence availed him nothing. He was arraigned and charged with wife murder.

Disclosures Promised

It is the state's contention that the Lamsons had had marital difficulties for some time previous to the slaying and the prosecution promises to present ample evidence to support this assertion. On the other hand, prominent campus neighbors of the Lamsons are emphatic in declaring that the Lamsons lived happily—in fact that the accuser man was the perfect husband who continued to be lover even after marriage. These friends scoff at rumors of infidelity either on the part of Mr or Mrs. Lamson.

One of the most important witnesses whom the state will call is Miss Dolores Roberts, who was a maid in the Lamson household.

Ghost of the Past

One of the facts dug up by the prosecution in its hunt for evidence is that Lamson was held on a slaying charge once before. When he was a youth, Lamson shot another boy to death while vacationing on the ranch of his father, A. B. Lamson, at Prairie Grange, Alberta, Canada. Although formally charged with manslaughter on that occasion, Canadian authorities decided the shooting was accidental.

Before Tragedy

Lamson is a Stanford graduate. It was at the university that he met his wife, the former Aliene Thorpe, daughter of Frank M. Thorpe, wealthy wire manufacturer of Lamar, Mo. They were married in 1925 at a brilliant society wedding in Stanford Memorial church, attended by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of the university and member of the Hoover cabinet.

Before the birth of her baby in 1930, Mrs. Lamson was executive secretary of the Stanford Y. W. C. A. She continued in this post after her baby was born.

Lamson will be defended at his trial, scheduled for August 21, by former congressman Arthur M. Free, who threatened on his client's arrest that he would file a malicious prosecution suit against whomever signed the charge.

NRA BENEFIT SEEN IN O. W. U. FIGURES

Enrollment Regarded as Sign of Improved Business

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Aug. 19—Better business conditions, probably due to the NRA, are reflected in preliminary enrollment figures at Ohio Wesleyan university here this summer, according to Registrar Allan C. Conger.

"The increasing number of applications from students in recent weeks seem to indicate that many parents are looking forward a little more hopefully to the coming year," Conger said.

The peak of preliminary enrollment at Ohio Wesleyan during the depression years of 1930, 1931 and 1932 was in July, whereas this year the peak has occured since Aug. 1, the date when the NRA became active. Conger believes a further steady increase will be noted during the remainder of August and that a new peak will be reached in early September.

Classes at Ohio Wesleyan this year will begin Wednesday, Sept. 20, Conger announced. Freshman days for incoming first-year students will be held beginning Friday, Sept. 15.

TO ATTEND SERVICE AT CAMP SYCHAR

Rev. Carl L. Lister, pastor of the Morral M. E. and Asbury M. E. churches, will attend the Sunday meeting at Camp Sychar, near Mt. Vernon. COURT NEWS

New Trial Sought

A petition asking that a verdict of a jury be set aside and a new trial granted was filed in common pleas court Friday afternoon by Bertha A. Baseler against Ivan Johnson.

The plaintiff sued Johnson for $5,590 for injuries sustained in an automobile collision in which a car driven by the defendant's son figured. The jury returned a verdict for Johnson and the plaintiff was ordered to pay the costs.

Since the time of the trial, the plaintiff says, she has obtained new witnesses to show that Johnson had given consent for his son to drive the car.

The petition was filed by Attorney J. W. Jacoby.

Transfers Approved

Charles D. Schaffner, receiver of the Citizens' Building and Loan Co., was granted permission to dispose of two tracts of real estate in exchange for deposits in the company. The transfers ordered were a Marion lot to Mrs. E. Grace Schindler for $1,373.78 in deposits and $26.28 in chash and 44 acres in Union county to David W. Price for $1,327.50 in deposits.

Suit Settled

The suit of Jason H. Carbaugh against W. Dexter Hazen as executor of the estate of Charles E. Gano, has been settled. A complete record was waived. Carbaugh sought $3,682 for loans and nursing service given Gano before his death. The law firm of Mosser, Young, Mosser and Wiant represented the plaintiff.

Divorce Granted

THE MAN WHO DARED COMING TO OHIO; RUGGLES AT PALACE

An imaginative biographical picture, suggested by incidents in the dramatic life of the late Mayme Ahrn Ostrand of Chicago, "The Man Who Dared," the picture which will be shown at the Ohio four days beginning Sunday, "The Man Who Dared," offers the unusually attractive Zita Johann and capable Preston Foster in the leading roles with Joan Marsh, Irene Hiller and Clifford Jones in the supporting cast.

Foster will be remembered as the actor who gave such a stirring performance in "The Last Mile." The director of the "Man Who Dared," said that he never seriously considered any other actress for the role handed by Miss Johann. Her real life story follows closely the life of the heroine of this picture. Miss Johann is the daughter of immigrants from Temesvar, Hungary. On the New York stage she played leads with the Theatre Guild Repertory Company in "He Who Gets Slapped," "Peer Gynt" and "The Devil's Disciple."

"MAMA LOVES PAPA" ON PALACE SCREEN

The greatly talked-up comedy "Mama Loves Papa," will arrive at the Palace Sunday to show through Tuesday. The picture offers the comedy team of Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland. If memory serves well these two were teamed as husband and wife in "The Night of June 18th, and "If I Had a Million" two of the pictures shown here some months ago.

Lilyan Tashman, Walter Catlett and George Barbier support the stars.

Miss Boland was John Drew's leading lady for six years. Her success on the stage made her an accepted player on Broadway. During the war she went abroad and entertained the soldiers in France. Her recent Broadway appearance was in "The Vinegar Tree." Barbier's biography states that this genial comedian had every intention of qualifying for the ministry before he was cast in a college play, and from then on, the stage was his love.

COLBERT-BROOK PICTURE AT MARION

"The Man From Yesterday," based on a play by Neil Blackwell and Rowland G. Edwards, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion. Claudette Colbert and Clive Brook portray the principal roles, with Andy Devine, Alcan Mowbray, Charles Boyer and Yola D'Avril among the supporting players. Andy Devine, one of the more capable younger comedians, got his big break in pictures when he put over that never-to-be-forgotten role of the injured and abed football linesman in "The Spirit of Notre Dame."

NANCY CARROLL IN STATE SHOW

Nancy Carroll and John Boles are co-starred in "Child of Manhattan," the picture which returns to show Sunday and Monday at the State. The story concerns a taxi-dancer, dealt with in a play by Preston Sturges and adopted to the screen. The picture has one novel characterization that may mean the loss of a wild west hero. It's Charles "Buck" Jones, who looks like a million dollars in his supporting role. Jones is starred in a western, "White Eagle," which will be shown on the same program.

Now, I'm My Own Man—I've opened an "Emergency Account"

These hard times have surely taught me a lesson.

I have a wife and baby and a small home of my own—everything was getting along nicely then along came hard times—work was very irregular and every week there was the fear of being laid off entirely. Then it was that I knew what real worry was. I wished and wished that I had saved a little against such an event—enough to tide us over until things picked up again. I vowed that I would go to the bank with part of the very next pay envelope I earned and put it right in a savings account.

I have saved a regular amount every week for a year now. If sickness or unemployment come along I can carry on. At last I am my own man!

Pastor To Leave Tuesday for German M.E. Meeting

Seventieth and Last Session of Conference of Church To Be Held at Cincinnati.

Rev. Karl W. Patow, pastor of the Prospect Street M. E. church will leave Tuesday to attend the seventieth and last annual session of the Central German Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday through Sunday at the William Nast Memorial church in Cincinnati.

At the closing session Sunday afternoon, Bishop Edgar Blake of Detroit will transfer the German churches into their adjacent English M. E. conferences, and will read the appointments.

The transfer will put the Prospect Street and Marion circuit churches, Bethlehem and Zion of the Ohio conference and will change the Bucyrus, Brokenword and Galion churches into the North-East Ohio conference.

Miss Frieda Wanner of 480 Pearl street will attend the conference as a lay delegate. The laymen's sessions will not begin until Friday morning.

Meeting Here in April

In April, Marion had the distinction of entertaining the last meeting of the Ohio district of the Central German conference.

With the transfer of the Central Ohio conference into the English M. E. conference of the former 10 German conferences, only the East German will remain. The first German Methodist church was organized in 1835. With the constant influx of German immigrants the membership grew rapidly and finally resulted in the existence of 10 strong German conferences in the United States.

The present transfer of the German conferences was prompted by the almost total cessation of German [illegible]

Dr. William Nast for whom the conference church was named was the first German missionary appointed by the Ohio Annual conference in 1835.

The business sessions of the conference will be held at the William Nast church and the night services and Sunday afternoon service will be held at Trinity M. E. church. The lay conference will meet in St. Paul's Protestant Congregational church.

Rev. Patow To Preach

Sunday morning, Rev. Patow has been invited to preach at the Mt. Auburn M. E. church.

Mayor Russell Wilson of Cincinnati will welcome the ministers at the opening service Tuesday night. Rev. C. H. Severinghaus, superintendent of the Michigan-Indiana district will respond, after which Dr. A. J. Barker, editor of the "Apologete," a weekly church publication will deliver the conference sermon. Rev. Emil I. Klotz of Berea, superintendent of the Ohio district, will preside. The conference stewards will meet in a preliminary session Tuesday afternoon.

Each morning of conference Bishop Blake will deliver a devotional address. The conference will be organized Wednesday morning. Rev. John Oetjen of Cleveland will preside at a memorial service for which Dr. John Mayer of Columbus will deliver the sermon. The annual meeting of the Mutual Preachers' Aid society will be held in the afternoon.

Wednesday night Professor Albert Riemenschneider, director of music at Baldwin-Wallace college conservatory of music at Berea, will give a 45 minute organ recital. Mr. Riemenschneider has given a number of recitals on the organ of the First Presbyterian church here. The recital will be followed by a "historical night" service with Dr. Albert J. Nast of Cincinnati, son of the late Dr. William Nast, as honorary chairman and Dr. J. C. Marting of Berea as active chairman. Dr. George C. Douglass of the Methodist Book Concern in Cincinnati, will deliver an address.

Mission Groups To Meet

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary societies will hold an anniversary meeting Thursday afternoon with Miss Grace G. Steiner and Miss Helen Fehr as speakers. Mrs. William Brickner of Berea, conference resident of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society, will deliver the farewell address. A pastor's forum which will follow, will be led by Dr. F. T. Enderis of Cincinnati. A young people's banquet will be followed by a "youth night" program with Rev. Louis Phillipp of New Albany, Ind., as chairman. Dr. W. E. J. Gratz of Chicago, editor of the Epworth Herald, will be the speaker.

Friday morning the laymen will join the ministers and following Bishop Blake's devotional address, the two groups will observe communion. Reports of district superintendents will follow. Dr. J. G. Schaal of Cleveland will lead a pastors' retreat later in the afternoon. The silver anniversary banquet of the Laymen's association, will be presided over by Fred Brettschneider as toastmaster, with past officers as speakers. C. L. Jordan of Columbus will be chairman of the "laymen's night" program at which former Governor Myers Y. Cooper will deliver the address.

Outnig Planned

The Saturday morning business session will preceed an afternoon outing at Scarlet Oaks, with supper served by the Bethesda Home for the Aged. The pastors will be free Saturday night.

Sunday morning services will be conducted in the several German M. E. churches in Cincinnati. In the afternoon the conference will close with an ordination service. Rev. Klotz will preside as chairman. Bishop Blake will deliver a sermon, after which he will conduct the rites of ordination of candidates for deacon's and elder's orders. The reading of appointments will be the concluding business of the conference.

Rev. Patow and Miss Wanner will return home Sunday night.

Thoughtful Living

A SERMONETTE

BY REV. H. H. MAXWELL

Pastor Grace Evangelical Church

Psalm 46:10 "Be still and know that I am God ....."

OUR age has been described by many terms and phrases. Even the days through which we now pass, taxes the vocabulary for an adequate word to describe its complexities. Recently our day has been described as having for its symbol, the loud speaker. Noises and voices are everywhere; these completely fill our ears, crowding out the calm voices of the mind and soul. The danger is, that we will accept too readily the suggestions clothed with confusion and excitement and later regret that we did not think. To say this time does not count, does not neutralize the disastrous effects of the thoughtless act.

We need to be quiet in order to think. I went into a church one time which had above its inner entrance to the place of worship, the word "SILENCE." That place was designed as a place to think and meditate. It was a place where the deep bass notes of the soul might give forth their tones, instead of the crashing of cymbals, and the blare of distraught minds. Being quiet and thinking will break the spell of uncertainty, and give assurance in place of fear. A man recently said, "When I go to church, I go to have my soul caught up." Lifted out of the noises and din of the week. We need to be quiet in order to be helped. Philips Brooks, that great preacher of the near past, preaching upon the account of Jesus feeding the five thousand said that it was necessary for the Lord to get the people to sit down before He could do anything for them. It may be necessary for us to sit down, to be quiet, to be thoughtful before we shall come to a satisfactory basis of life. This basis can not rest upon a mere philosophy of life, but must have as its norm, an experience adorned with the presence of Christ.

We need to be quiet in order to know. It is knowledge we lack. The prophet of old felt that his people would be destroyed for the lack of knowledge. We need to know, we can know. The Psalmist said, "While I was musing the fire burned." God will reward the hungering soul, the searching heart. But we must be still in order to hear the voice of God which has been obstructed by the voices that have been nearest to us. It may be the voice of a friend or of the associations of our life.

The result of listening to God brings the calm assurance that God still lives. His will must be carried out. Courage rises, fear falls, trust embraces, anxiety relaxes and finally confidence comes.

REV. F. W. COX TO LEAVE MARION

Pastor of First Pilgrim Holiness Church Transferred To Salem.

Rev. F. W. Cox, pastor of the First Pilgrim Holiness church at Bennett and Waterloo streets has been transferred to Salem, O., he announced today.

His successor, Rev. N. O. Stucky of Bowling Green, will deliver his first sermon on Sunday, Aug. 27. The transfers were made this week at a meeting of the Ohio district of the Pilgrim Holiness church at Springfield.

Rev. Cox and his wife, Rev. Lydia Cox, expects to leave Marion Wednesday. Rev. and Mrs. Stucky probably will move here next week, if arrangements can be made they will live in the present parsonage at 364 Uncapher avenue.

Rev. Cox has served the First church for the last two years, and in that time has been the leading spirit in practically completing the interior work of the new church edifice. He came here from the Mother church at Binghamton, N. Y. In Salem he expects to enter the general evangelistic field.

Since he entered the ministry, Rev. Stucky has served pastorates in Springfield, O., Nelsonville, Athens and Bowling Green, and has done considerable evangelistic work. Rev. and Mrs. Stucky have two daughters, Mrs. W. J. Johnson of Columbus and Miss Twila Stucky 13, who will make her home with her parents.

DR. TURLEY TO GIVE SERMON AT SERVICE

Union Meeting Well Be Held at Salem Evangelical Church.

Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, will deliver the sermon Sunday night at 8 at union services at Salem Evangelical church. Rev. H. C. Ahrens, pastor, will preside.

A pageant, "A Woman Who Dared," written and directed by Harold Patrick of Central Christian church, will be presented at the union young people's meeting at 7 at Salem church. The story was taken from the Book of Esther.

Music for the service will be arranged by George Wingett of Trinity Baptist church. Bernard Brooks, president of the Christian Young People's union will preside for a short business session following the pageant.

The cast of characters follows: Harold Patrick of Central Christian church, "King Ahasuerus"; Miss Esther Topliff of Epworth M. E. church "Queen Esther"; Glenn Patten of Trinity Baptist church, "Haman" Bernard Brooks of Trinity Baptist church, "Mordecai"; Harry Woodal of Trinity Baptist church and Cicero Diehl of the Prospect Street M. E. church, "king's guard"; Miss Glenna Phillians of Central Christian church, Misses Elinor Cowan and Jean Verburg of the First Presbyterian church, Miss Kathryn Schneider of Central Christian church, "queen's servants" Robert Bach of the Prospect Street M. E. church, Francis Fairchild of Central Christian church, Wendell Knachel of the First Reformed church, "king's servants."

TO RESUME SERVICE AT CHURCH OF GOD

Night services will be resumed at the Church of God, beginning Sunday, Rev. D. T. Koch, pastor, announced today. The service will be at 7:45.

Rev. Koch has returned from conducting evangelistic tent meetings at Delaware. He was assisted by Rev. G. W. Howard of Forest, during part of the time he was there. Several delegations from Columbus attended the services.

RITES FOR INFANT

KENTON, Aug. 19—Dortha Jean Garner, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Garner of Kenton, who died at the parents' home Friday, will be buried in Grove cemetery Sunday following funeral services at the home at 2 p. m. Death was due to cholera infantum.

VISITORS TO PREACH HERE

Five Marion Ministers Will Not Be In Pulpits for Services.

Four out-of-town ministers and one student theologian will deliver sermons in Marion churches Sunday, in the absence of the regular pastors.

Rev. George L. Pake of Portsmouth, pastor of the Lee Street Presbyterian church many years ago, has accepted an invitation to return and preach Sunday morning and night in the absence of the director, Rev. James M. Fisher. His subject at night will be "Four Little Black Sheep." Rev. Pake is now doing home mission work with the Second Presbyterian church of Portsmouth. He owns a farm north of Marion which he expects to return to when he is no longer in pastoral work. The Christian Endeavor societies will be in charge of services at night with Miss Dorothy Lindsey as leader.

Dr. George Hay Lee Beeman of Wooster, O., will preach Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church on the subject, "The Victory of Christ." The pastor, Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, does not expect to be in church Sunday. While in Marion Dr. Beeman will visit his brother, Roland Beeman of 141 McWilliams court.

Rev. Estel Irwin Jobe, nephew of D. S. Jobe of 316 South Prospect street will preach Sunday at 10:15 a. m. at Calvary Evangelical church. He recently was licensed by the Ohio conference of the Evangelical church. Rev. Jobe has been a frequent visitor in Marion. He is the son of J. R. Jobe of near West Union, O.

For the second Sunday Leo Keil, student of theology at Heidelberg college at Tiffin will preach at the First Reformed church. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Keil of the Cromer-Millisor road. He will preach at 9:15 a. m. on "The Abundant Life." Sunday school will be at 10 a. m.

Dr. C. E. Turley of Epworth M. E. church will be out of the city Sunday morning, and the pulpit will be filled by Rev. Claude S. Dayton, a former Marion resident who is now attending Garrett Theological seminary at Chicago. He is a member of Epworth church.

Church News . . . Told in Brief

Gospel Team—The True Gospel team of the Emmanuel Baptist church will give a program of music and testimony Sunday night at 7:30 at Calvary Evangelical church. Rev. E. Radebaugh, pastor, will deliver a sermon on "Amazing Grace."

• • •

Plan Service—The preliminary service Sunday night at Emmanuel Baptist church will be in charge of the Baptist Young People's union. Rev. S. F. Porter, pastor, will preach on "The Existance, Nature and Work of Angels."

• • •

No Mid-Week Service—There will be no mid-week service at the Prospect Street M. E. church Wednesday night in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Karl W. Patow, who will be attending conference in Cincinnati. Communion will be observed Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

FOUR MINISTERS TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Evangelical Pastors Will Go To Ohio Meeting at Bucyrus.

Marion's four Evangelical ministers will attend the ninety-sixth annual session of the Ohio conference of the Evangelical church which will open Wednesday in Bucyrus and continue through Sunday.

Each of the churches will send a lay delegate. H. W. Zachman will go from Calvary, Edward Gross from Greenwood, Harold Dutt from Oakland and James Wickersham from the Salem-Grace charge.

Rev. E. Radebaugh of Calvary, Rev. Irvin Kauffman of Greenwood, Rev. H. E. Williamson of Oakland and Rev. H. H. Maxwell of the Salem-Grace charge, expect to be present for all sessions.

Rev. Kauffman and Rev. Williamson do not expect to be returned to their Marion churches, they said recently, explaining that they have served the seven year limit of time permitted a minister in one pastorate.

Bishop J. F. Dunlap of Cleveland will preside at all sessions and will read the list of appointments. It is customary for the appointments to be read in the afternoon of the last day of conference.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, Aug. 20.

Sunday's horoscope holds an augury of a sudden and entirely unexpected chain of events, with probably radical change of environment, interests and associates. An element of the adventurous and speculative may complexion the affairs and have a far-reaching effect on the future destinies.

Those whose birthday it is may find a year in which sudden and unforeseen events may be responsible for changing the entre course of the life, with strange contacts, fresh opportunities and greatly enlarged prospects for progress.

A child born on this day may be adventurous, talented, original, independent and may have a career of great and profitable experiences.

Notable nativity: Benjamin Harrison, ex-president, U. S.

• • •

For Monday, Aug. 21.

Monday's astrological forecast accents the auguries of Sunday's inauguration of great changes, experiences and adventures in the career, with a sudden and whirlwind rearrangement of the interests, opportunities and prospects. These unite in radically changing the destinies, eventuating in cherished success and progress.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a most important year, with a sudden precipitation of fresh openings of far-reaching influence on the life and its interests and contacts.

A child born on this day may be adventurous, independent, modern, brilliant and progressive. It should have a notable and adventurous career.

Notable nativity: Frank A. Munsey, publisher.

The Passion Foretold

Matthew 16:21-28

21. From that time forth began Jesus to shew unto His disciples, how that He must go unto Jerusalem, and suffer many things of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and be raised again the third day.

22. Then Peter took Him, and began to rebuke Him, saying, Be it far from Thee, Lord; this shall not be unto Thee.

23. But He turned, and said unto Peter, Get Thee behind Me, Satan: Thou art an offense unto Me: for Thou savourest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men.

24. Then said Jesus unto His disciples, If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me.

25. For whoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever will lose his life for My sake shall find it.

26. For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

27. For the Son of Man shall come in glory of His Father with the angels; and then He shall reward every man according to his works.

28. Verily I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste death, till they see the Son of Man coming in His kingdom.

Also told in Mark 8:31-9:1 and Luke 9:22-27.

THE three gospels, Matthew, Mark and Luke tell us of this gathering of Jesus and His disciples.

More than ever Jesus is anxious to be alone with His disciples. To continue to work in Galilee was impossible as the opposition of the Pharisees was increasing. The Jews were continuing to reject Him, they had little faith in a Messiah who suffered, they wanted one who would be triumphant over all things.

Fully aware of the task of the Messiah, Jesus was trying to impress on the twelve, the suffering He would have to go through, which would eventually lead to His death. His disciples, especially Peter, could not understand that He must die.

Jesus prepares them for the life everlasting as it had been foretold in Ps. 62:12, Prov. 24:12, Job 34:11 and Jer. 17:10. The redemption of their souls was foretold in Ps. 49:7-8. The judgment from God was told in Dan. 7:10 and the foretelling of His coming in Zec. 14:5. In this way, Jesus presents the idea to His chosen twelve, that if they will make the highest use of life and its power, preserve it from waste and destruction, they will be inheritors of the Kingdom.

A Crusade for Children.

The latest movement sponsored by the International Society For Crippled Children, Inc., Rotary's humanitarian branch, should grow to the extent it is advertised. No appeal for support should be necessary.

Its object is to gain a greater measure of control over infantile paralysis, a disease which causes approximately 40 per cent of all deformities among children. Its method will be public education.

The first step is public education concerning the disease. Its peculiar nature makes this more than customarily essential, because of the absolute necessity for recognizing its symptoms immediately.

Later steps will be extension of immunization and development of incidental processes. Like tuberculosis, infantile paralysis threatens more often than it attacks in acute form. It is believed that 85 per cent of the adult population has been subject to the disease in a mild form. Their immunity to future attacks has been built up by nature's process. Protection of the minority which lacks ability to throw off the germ is the problem.

Although the disease rarely is fatal, it frequently exacts a terrific penalty in the form of useless muscles and weakened bone structures. The victims are challenges to the power of science. But first, the people must be educated to use what faculties science already has developed.

Rotary's enthusiastic indorsement of the movement to promote public knowledge of the disease is entirely worthy. The organization's members go into their task with the advantage of knowing it is worthy of their best efforts.

The Postmaster General's Duty.

Postmaster General Farley's announcement of plans to lead an administration prohibition repeal crusade into Maine and Virginia is heard with varying degrees of approbation and condemnation. Significantly, response has nothing to do with party affiliations.

Many Democrats and many Republicans feel that Mr. Farley does right in taking the initiative for repeal. It is part of his party's platform to bring about repeal as quickly as possible. The postmaster general's duties are largely of a political nature. It becomes his function, therefore, to capitalize whatever gain there may be in the party's support of the forces of repeal.

There are on the other hand, however, a great many members of the two parties, as well as many persons not allied with either, who question both the rightness and the strategical wisdom of the thing Mr. Farley proposes to do. They are mindful, chiefly, of an accepted analysis of the effect his repeal campaigning had in Tennessee.

Republican voters in that state were antagonized by the Democratic political manager's ardent pleas for repeal, prohibition had not been in any sense a partisan issue. The platform obviously betrayed many dry Democrats, who thereby were deprived of a voice in the party. It is not impossible that some of them, too, were antagonized by the postmaster general's campaigning.

It is scarcely credible that Mr. Farley or any other prominent Democrat would care to espouse the cause of repeal without reasonable assurance that it was assured of success. It appears, therefore, that the most the postmaster general can expect to do is to remind the wet majority that the Democratic party is the proper object for the gratitude of repealists. If this be a worthy purpose, no criticism is justified. There are, however, many who see Mr. Farley as an opportunist who is confusing the issue of repeal versus retention for the sake of giving the repeal movement a party flavor wholly unnatural to it.

Star-Gazing.

Discovery of an important change in the stellar existence of Nova Ophiuchus No. 2, a relatively unimportant star which few inhabitants of the earth ever have seen, entitles Leslie C. Peletier of Delphos to the plaudits of astronomers. It seems assured they will be given freely.

Plaudits from another quarter are in order, also. It happens that Astronomer Peletier studies the heavens as a hobby. A draughtsman by occupation, he has been given plenty of spare time by that distinctly earthly prenomenon known as the depression. Yet, he found something better than brooding to occupy his mind.

To note the change in Nova Ophiuchus No. 2 a dozen years of observation were required. As a matter of fact, Peletier was scouting up a blind alley. He had no way of knowing that a stellar change which happened approximately 10,000 years ago finally was to be made manifest on earth by speeding rays of light.

The equipment he used, though adequate, was not elaborate. One reads between the lines that the discovery which has given him his biggest thrill and the numerous discoveries which have finally satisfied the patient curiosity of other astronomers are due more to persistence than to mechanical aids.

Peletier's star-gazing is distinctly unimportant, as importance is rated in his times. Yet, at the same time, the latest outstanding reward for intelligent persistence in his hobby is a welcome reminder of at least one of the pleasures offered to human beings in that sublimest field of human investigation—astronomy.

What Is A Profiteer?

There are increasing signs of a [illegible] with prices that increase as rapidly as wages. Recovery administrators working under the powers of the new deal admit frankly that a general tendency of the two to run abreast will wreck their program. Reasonably dependable figures have convinced them that it no longer is a problem in prosperity but a prevailing situation.

To deal with it there is suggested a price control board which would determine the fairness of increases on a basis of actual costs. If is a manufacturer, wholesaler or retailer operating under the blanket code for reemployment and increased purchasing power or under any one of the separate divisional codes for the same purposes probably would be forced to show, on complaint, justification for any price increase other than those necessitated by actual increases in wages and costs of materials.

This would set an impossible task for the government. Ohio, which has been waiting for years to know what is a fair price for the services of one of its important utilities, has reason to know how hopeless it would be to regulate prices on a national scale. Even assured of the energetic cooperation of all persons who determine price levels, the government could not determine with any facility or accuracy what prices are unfair and what are fair.

Consumers are equally helpless. The national recovery act, by bringing business enterprises of the same type closer together under trade agreements, has made it harder than ever for them to penalize the handlers of any article which is priced higher than the traffic can bear. For many readily apparent reasons, they are helpless in a majority of cases. Consumers cannot eliminate profiteering.

Another factor must be taken into account. It is a possibility that even without profiteering prices will go up as rapidly or more rapidly than wages. For instance, cotton textiles have increased substantially in cost to the consumer. It probably would be impossible for the government to demonstrate, however, that profiteering is the reason. If it could demonstrate that fact, furthermore, what could it do about it? What is a profiteer anyway?

Possibly these problems may be settled without difficulty. They may be eliminated by the wave of recovery that is supposed to be gathering force as it sweeps over the country. Unfortunately, no other escape is in sight.

Sleepy Drivers.

Delaware's campaign against sleepy truck drivers will be watched with lively interest in other states. If it is successful in decreasing this menace to highway safety, the ice will have been broken for action in many places.

It is common knowledge that reasonable hours have had no place in the programs of many trucking companies. In many cases, long hauls seem to make it imperative for men to drive continuously for as much as several days without rest.

Delaware has dared to put up against the argument of necessity a social argument of safety for other users of public roads. In all probability, trucking interests in that state are feeling currently the same quickening of business they are experiencing in Ohio. The necessity for long service without complications from restrictions will strengthen their theoretical position if they decide to make a fight for the practice of long hours for drivers.

In a large sense, the question is but one of many involved in the knotty problem of regulating a comparatively new form of freight transportation. Others, including overloading and road practices, are just as important. Perhaps Delaware is not aware of them in the same degree that Ohio has been made aware of them.

Pure Sport.

A Milwaukee judge who ruled that setting up chairs in a hall where a wrestling match is to be staged isn't as hard work as wrestling has the right idea. On the basis of his opinion, a janitor who tried to collect $2 was unsuccessful, because the wrestlers work for anywhere from carfare to $1.50 a match.

In wrestling, as in most other sports, standards of the topnotchers are accepted all too often as the standards of the rank and file. A Jim Londos makes a fortune exhibiting his physique and skill. Roughhouse Somebody-or-Other makes enough to fill his empty stomach after being thrown out of the ring.

The Roughhouse person realizes, furthermore, that he hasn't a chance of getting into the big money. Yet, he goes to work and swents and tussles in a manner that would make Londos look like a gentleman of leisure. When the crowd demands more action he tries to give it to them. If a frenzied spectator demands his opponent's ear as a trophy he apparently is willing to accommodate the customer.

Taking one thing and another, wrestling probably comes as close to pure sport as any activity currently holding favor with the fans. When a man will throw a muscular opponent and be thrown by that opponent for a pittance, he is demonstrating a love of his work that has grown exceedingly rare in the topsy-turvy circles of professional sport.

Significance of Albumin.

Scarcely a week passes that I do not receive a letter requesting information about albuminuria. "Is the presence of albumin a serious disorder; does it mean Bright's disease; how can I overcome it, and what causes it?" These are the usual questions asked.

Albumin is normally present in the urine. But the quantity is so slight that it is difficult to detect by the usual simple tests.

The presence is determined by a boiling process when a cloudy sediment appears. If acetic acid or vinegar dissolves the sediment, it is not albumin.

An excessive amount of albumin is frequently found after strenuous exercise. It is a common occurrence among athletes. It is also found in persons whose work demands continuous sitting or standing in one position. This type of albuminuria is called "orthostatic albuminuria." It quickly disappears upon rest, a change of occupation.

Albuminuria is encountered in persons who indulge in a high protein diet. For instance, people whose diet consists of an excessive amount of meat, fish, and eggs, may show high amounts of albumin. When the diet is adjusted and made more varied the albumin will disappear. Albuminuria is also found in certain families, especially those made up of thin and energetic individuals.

I want to assure you that a faint trace of albumin does not indicate Bright's disease. But if it is found I do advise that you report to the doctor for examination at periodic intervals. Also report to your dentist and have all infected and diseased teeth removed. Avoid undue exposure to cold and protect against common colds and infections.

Certain types of albuminuria are dangerous. I refer especially to those cases where persistent and increasing amounts of albumin are found. This condition is due to a damaged and diseased kidney. If albumin persists and increases in amount despite diet, rest and hygienic care, neglect eventually leads to a serious condition.

Under proper diet and rest, recovery from mild cases of albuminuria may occur in less than a month. More severe cases require observation and care over a period of several months. In these cases complete rest is the most important part of the treatment.—Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Daily Talk to Parents

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH.

A TIRESOME STORY.

"When I was a boy I had to carry water and chop wood before I went to school every morning. I didn't have time to loaf the way you do."

"I never had any spending money given to me when I was your age. I had to earn it as a grocer's boy." And so on ad infinitum.

This trick of comparing the life of a hard-working or straitened youth with the easier existence of the next generation is one to which, for some reason, fathers are more prone than mothers.

It may be that hidden deep down in such a man is a certain jealousy of his son's opportunities as compared with his own, or he may be feeling an unconscious resentment at having to keep his nose to the grindstone to supply money and luxuries which his son takes for granted. A mother who has been the bread-winner may talk the same way.

And yet the very fathers who draw these comparisons between past and present are often the most devoted. In all probability they are straining every nerve and muscle to give their sons a better chance in life than they had themselves. The tragedy of it is that their unfortunate manner of speech builds a barrier between them and the sons they love.

The child naturally resents the suggestion that his father gives grudgingly, and little by little develops the determination to be independent of a support unwillingly given, and take care of himself.

Or he may grow callous and indifferent and go out for what he can get. The results are the same—a complete misunderstanding and possibly a breach between father and son.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

One of the pioneer workers for temperance legislation in Ohio was J. Q. A. Campbell of Bellefontaine, who bought the Bellefontaine Republican from D. R. Locke (Petroleum V. Nasby) and proceeded to use it to drive out lawless saloons and a robber band.

Campbell, and his brother C. D. Campbell, who was associated with him in the Republican, centered their fight on the liquor traffic as the nucleus of the evil element that ran Bellefontaine. One night a gunman who was himself a saloonkeeper was delegated to "put Campbell on the spot" as the more modern phrase has it. He went to the home, was admitted and drew a revolver. But Campbell was a Civil war veteran and was used to facing guns. He promptly knocked the intruder down, disarmed him and had him locked up. Upon the promise of the man's wife that he would reform, Campbell let him go. He kept his word. One of his sons became president of a southern college and another a preacher. Campbell kept up his fight to clean up Bellefontaine with such success that the city became a center of opposition to the open saloon.

Sketches from Ohio's Past

BY DENNIS R. SMITH

ZOAR FOUND COMMUNISM PRACTICAL 100 YEARS AGO

Practically a century before Russia undertook its great experiment, communism flourished in an Ohio village which furnishes one of the most interesting studies of an attempt at group living.

Zoar was founded by a group of Separatists who left Wurttemberg, Germany, in 1817 and bought a large tract of fertile land on the banks of the Tuscarawas river in Tuscarawas county.

Founders of the colony had no communistic idea in mind when they came to this country, but they found almost immediately upon their arrival that some special form of government was equired to make their settlement successful. They did not speak the language of their neighbors, their mode of life was distinctly different and it became apparent that they must establish a self-sustaining colony which would supply its own needs.

Articles of agreement were signed by which all the colonists turned their property into a joint holding and every man agreed to work for the common good at the job to which he was best suited. All money, goods and products were pooled and a large storehouse was established from which each family drew all the supplies it needed. There was no bookkeeping and no system of rationing, but each family came twice a week and drew food and other articles as required. The community had its own flour mill, raised and spun its own wool, made its own leather and supplied all its other needs. Each man received two suits of clothes a year. As shoes were needed the colonists went to the cobbler and waited patiently while he made a pair. A foundry turned out great cumbersome stoves. There was a cider mill and a cart with a huge tank went from house to house daily while the people came out and drew as much cider as they needed.

Celibacy was encouraged but was not obligatory and members who wished to do so married by signing an agreement, another striking parallel to the Russian experiment. The rules specifically provided there was to be no ceremony by preacher or priest. Esthetic sides of life were not overlooked and an entire square in the center of the town was devoted to a beautiful flower garden with an arbor of spruce trees sheltering rustic benches where swains and maidens found a pleasant trysting place.

• • •

The community flourished for 75 years. An influx of visitors, charmed by the quaint life of the community, brought its downfall. Members were tempted by offers of employment to work for the newcomers to their own gain. Mat-

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 19—Two friends in as many weeks have popped in airily to prattle they were washed up with the daily struggle. They had retired. Each in middle years had decided to shuck the cares of a workaday world, play golf, travel and enjoy themselves. For them Life begins!

O. O. McIntyre

Or so they think. I'm a Doubting Thomas. I long to pass out of the human picture immediately after tapping out a fruity paragraph for the wind-up of a column. That would be Nirvana. I can think of nothing so bleak as a day of nothing but loafing. And I'm a lazy oaf.

The only folk who should hanker for the chimney corner are those with a keen zest for art and music or collectors. For 23 years—a few shivery bars of "Hearts and Flowers," professor!—I worked every day including Sundays and during a six months' stretch of semi-invalidism when not outside a room.

I could not retire because I haven't what it takes. Even though I had I would not give it a flicker of thought. If I love anything in this world, I love my job. Too many treasured things would go out of my life with a permanent click of the lid on my typewriter.

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

LIGHT AS A SUMMER LOVE.

One of woman's most beautiful illusions is that the marriage ceremony will transform a gay Don Juan into a nice, tame porch-sitter and perambulator-pusher.

• • •

One thing that simply can't be modernized is love. Trying to make a success of marriage, without the good old-fashioned brand is about as futile as tfying to make bread and leaving out the flour.

• • •

Once, if a man didn't marry, it was because he couldn't afford to marry. Nowadays, it is more often the girl who feels that she can't afford to marry—unless she loves him enough to give up permanent waves and spend most of her salary on waffle-irons and vacuum cleaners.

• • •

A clever woman can marry a robot or a store-dummy, and manage to make him over into something which other women think worth stealing. While a foolish woman can draw a prize husband and manage to mess him up so that he seems like an affliction.

The honeymoon is not over [illegible] the bridegroom glances up [illegible] evening and wonders just what happened to him, that he should [illegible] himself sitting opposite the same girl, every day, at breakfast and dinner.

Marriage is that point at which a man ceases to make a [illegible] women happy by making love to them—and begins making one unhappy by forgetting to make love to her.

• • •

Hauling him over the coals [illegible] cured a man's sins—but it [illegible] times does a lot to relieve a woman's feelings.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Sunday, Aug. 19, 1923.

Miss Frances Myers and Keith Ridgway, both of LaRue, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Floy Johnson of LaRue, by Rev. J. W. Horne, pastor of the LaRue M. E. church.

Special services were held at the Memorial M. E. church in Caledonia in honor of the late President Harding. The church was crowded to capacity, a number of those present having known Mr. Harding in his youth. The pastor, Rev. Frederick W. Hass, gave a sermon on "Harding the Beloved."

The Millisor family held its annual reunion at Garfield park. Frank Barks was elected president.

Upper Sandusky won a baseball tournament at Lincoln park. Ashland defeated Fostoria in the first game, 2-1. Upper Sandusky won from Marion, 2-0, and then took the final game from Ashland, 8-1.

A family dinner was given at Garfield park by Miss Rhea King in honor of Mrs. Ellen King of Lexington, Ky., who was visiting in Marion.

Comment of the Press

HAY FEVER AND INTELLECT.

The season is here again when the sneeze of the unhappy hay fever sufferer echoes throughout the land and when the inflamed nose and watery eye cast a blanket of gloom over otherwise happy people.

From now until frosts bring their welcome balm all who can afford it will hie themselves to Michigan and Canada, where atmospheric conditions make the affliction less burdensome.

Those who can't get away will have to struggle along the best they can at home giving themselves with every treatment suggested by friends and specialists in the eternal hope of getting relief.

Rank growths of weeds which fill the air with their pollen have been found to be a common irritant. For this reason, if none other, vacant lots within the city ought to be cleared of the veritable weed jungles which have been given full sway this summer. Unemployed labor might be utilized for this work under city supervision.

Perhaps some day science will develop a sure-fire cure for the early autumn misery. Until that time the sneeze-torn sufferers will have to endure it and take whatever lean consolation may be found in the observation of one authority that "most hay fever patients are persons of considerable intellectual development."—Ohio State Journal.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Aug. 19—As Uncle Sam mobilizes his forces for a nationwide war on crime, pledged to fight to the end to rid the country of kidnapers and racketeers, a youthful and enthusiastic man at the department of justice is getting ready for battle.

JOHN EDGAR HOOVER

He is J. Edgar Hoover, director of the newly created division of investigation.

Hoover's name does not figure as prominently perhaps in the news of this great drive the government is planning as do some of the others.

Moves of Professor Raymond Moley, President Roosevelt's special investigator, are noted. Attorney General Cummings' utterances on the subject are made known.

But it is upon the shoulders of Hoover that much of the responsibility for dealing with the criminal element rests. He and his division will be, so to speak, the executive officers of the high command.

• • •

The others will do the planning. Hoover represents the strong arm of the law.

"Crime," says the young director, "cannot be fought effectively until we know the extent, nature and geographical concentration of it. The best way to diagnose it is to collect statistics on it."

As the result of his crusading for definite information on crime his organization has succeeded in amassing the largest fingerprint file of criminals in the world—3,500,000 sets. More than 6,000 agencies here and abroad are contributing to this collection of statistics.

• • •

Last year his agents set a record of 95.51 per cent convictions in cases where they secured federal indictments.

Of the 17 kidnaping and extortion cases the federal officers have investigated since the Lindbergh case there were 15 in which the perpetrators were caught. There have been convictions in 12 of the cases and three trials are pending.

The various agencies of his division are prepared to cooperate to the fullest in the war on crime which the President has declared.

• • •

Hoover has developed the division of identification which includes the national crime laboratory, the crime statistics collection service and the officers training school.

His men are all trained. Four years ago when he began the officers' training school not only were the new officers put through six weeks of training in the most recent scientific methods of detection, but he called in all the old ones in the service and required them to study.

Oldsmobile Is Acclaimed As Style Leader for 1933

WINS FAVOR AT ALL AUTOMOBILE SHOWS

Lautenslager Oldsmobile, Inc. Are Local Dealers for Year's Outstanding Car.

Greeted by fashion authorities and by enthusiastic throngs in all parts of the country as the smartest and most beautiful de sign of the year the new Oldsmobile Sixes and Straight Eights are sweeping into public favor as the unquestioned style leaders for 1933

Lautenslager Oldsmobile Inc 203 South Main street is the Marion agency for these cars

Wherever the automobile crowds gather at the annual shows fea turing the first half of the year at exhibitions in metropolitan centers and at showroom displays in other communities large and small these flashing new Oldsmobile Sixes and Straight Eights receive the enthusiastic approval of all who view them "It looks like Oldsmobile year is the comment

Not only has Oldsmobile attained style leadership for its new line, but has made sweeping price reductions as compared with last years listings These reductions represent from 130 to 145. The new price schedules range from $745 to $855 for the Six and from $845 to $955 for the Straight Eight

Lowest Price in 10 Years

According to R M W Shaw Oldsmobile sales manager the base price is the lowest for which any Oldsmobile car has been sold during the past 10 years and represents one of the biggest automobile values now available to the public

The beholder who examines the new cars in detail notes that Oldsmobile has incorporated many deft touches in the working out of its new streamline styling achieving a balanced ensemble of perfectly blended lines from front to rear Head lamps tail lamps and new stamped steel wheels are all designed to harmonize

The new cars are lower and wider with more room in the seating compartments" says John G Wood chief engineer They are of aero-dynamic design from their new sloping radiator grills to the wind stream rear quarters Fenders are of entirely new design that completely conceal the chassis and present a finished appearance never before attained They also blend into the lines of the running board and increase the appearance of length in the cars

New Feature in Design

"The front end ensemble in both the Six and Straight Eight are decidedly new are striking in appearance and beautiful in line The enameled radiator shells form an integral unit with fenders and head lamps through a tie-rod that is concealed behind the chromium plated V-shaped grill The radiator shell continues downward on a forward slant to the front spring-hangers and blends into the fender lines at the sides

"The streamline trend really brings a new era in body design ing that is likely to intrigue the entire industry as well as the public and to continue for years to come

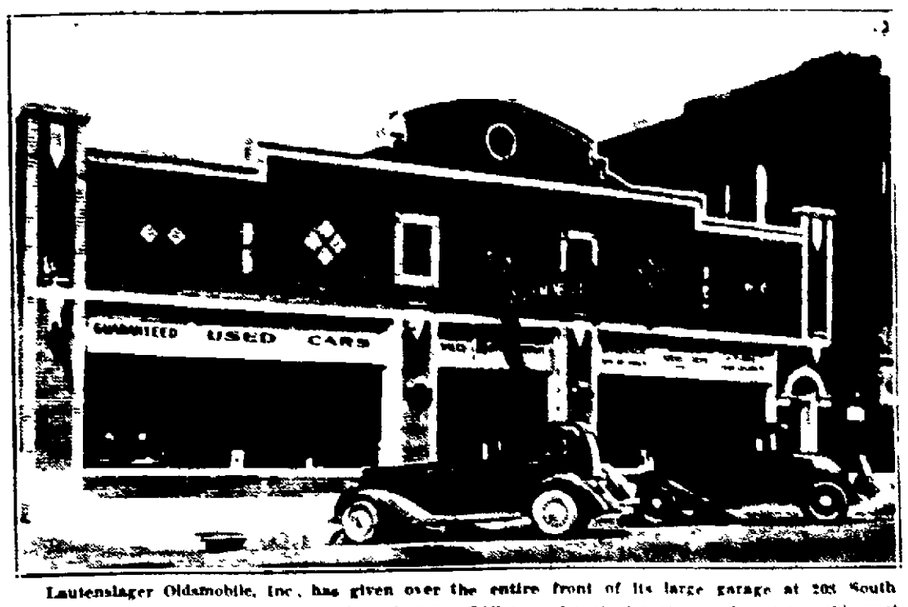
AUGUST TRADE ABOVE AVERAGE

NEW YORK Aug 19—In its summary and interpretation of the news of the week important to business, 'Business Week says

Dog days are dull days for business but this year August brings less lassitude than usual Steel output is leveling off at 55 per cent of capacity the highest point in more than two years, with a slight slackening in demand just perceptible to close observers Despite labor troubles coal production has achieved a new high level Settlement of the Pennsylvania strike is a great relief to worried industries dependent on coal

Preliminary figures for July indicate an increase of four per cent in department store sales over July 1932 and this is the first increase since 1930

Oldsmobile In Spacious Sales Quarters



Lautenslager Oldsmobile, Inc., has given over the entire front of its large garage at 203 South Main street to the display of new and used cars. Offices and parts department also occupy this part of the building while a large area of floor space in the rear is available for storage in addition to the complete service department, wash and grease racks.

Oldsmobile Ranks High in Marion's Record of New Car Sales This Year

Lautenslager Oldsmobile Inc Oldsmobile dealers located at 203 South Main street take pride in the fact that for the first seven months of 1933 Oldsmobile is in fourth position in Marion county according to the new car bills of sale filed at the courthouse As the three leading makes are all in the lower price field one might say that Oldsmobile leads the high priced field in Marion county

Lautenslager Oldsmobile have a modern service department complete in every detail and will service any make of car

The service department is under the very capable management of Chester Corbin who thoroughly understands every branch of auto repair The staff of mechanics Pat Lynn Amos Pierson and Art Ulery all with years of experience complete the service department

Motorists need not hesitate to intrust the Lautenslager Oldsmobile Inc with the care and upkeep of their cars

New Models Give Utmost Speed and Riding Comfort

The fine performance and comfort qualities of the new 1933 Oldsmobile Sixes and Straight Eights are comparable only with those found in cars far more expensive

Increased engine power — 80 horsepower for the Six and 90 for the Straight Eight—giving sparkling acceleration and flashing speed plus a new three-point live rubber engine mounting are two leaders in the 1933 list of Oldsmobile performance bettering and comfort giving improvements

In speed the new cars offer more than the average motorist will ever need to call upon The new Six will do from 75 to 80 and the new eight from 80 to 85—actual stop-watch miles per hour

Three-Point Mounting New

The Oldsmobile three point engine mounting is absolutely new According to John G Wood Oldsmobile chief engineer, it reduces any feeling of engine vibration practically to the zero mark

"This new mounting says Mr Wood "permits a slight movement of the engine in its natural tendency to rotate around the exact polar axis of the engine which action neutralizes the torsional vibration set up by the piston power strokes Torque reactions therefore are absorbed and are not transmitted to the frame and body

The front of the engine is seated on a large curved pad of rubber located high on the engine just under the water pump The other two points of suspension are located low and at the rear just below the clutch housing These are set at an angle of 45 degrees and form part of the imaginary circle in which any engine naturally tends to rotate

OLDSMOBILE BUILT FOR LONG SERVICE

Latest Engineering Developments Assure Highest Degree of Dependability.

Built into the 1933 Oldsmobiles are the latest engineering developments known to science to insure the buyer the highest degree of dependability and long life—to bring to the fine car market a Six and an Eight as near mechanical perfection as it is humanly possible to conceive

Behind these cars are the many years of experience and vast resources not only of the Olds Motor Works but of the General Motors Corporation with ultra modern research laboratories and their highly trained staff of engineers The practical value of these advantages is proved by the fact that many Oldsmobile owners have driven their cars far above the 100,000 mile mark

Ask Oldsmobile experts to name the new features responsible for this new conception of dependability and they point with pride to such mechanical improvements as the electro-plated piston the long life thin wall connecting rod bearings—the air cooled fuel line—the complete water cooling system for valve seats and cylinders the air cleaner and intake silencer for the carburetor the full pressure lubrication system the rifle drilled connecting rods and a wealth of other improvements that go to make the new Oldsmobiles what they are, leaders in their price fields

With all these advancements Oldsmobile engineers have achieved a fine balance of all rotating and reciprocating parts that effectually eliminates engine vibration

INSULATION KEEPS OUT ALL DRAFTS

Automobile robes are entirely superfluous in the latest automobiles according to Oldsmobile engineers They point out that in the 1933 Oldsmobiles every place where drafts might enter has been insulated with rubber gaskets rubber and felt or celotex interlining and that the cars have doors with overlapping edges and weatherproofed windows and windshields In addition the cars are equipped with the Fisher no draft individually controlled ventilation system which eliminates uncomfortable and dangerous drafts

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

The Battle Begins

GERMAINE! A moment of mental torment came and passed replaced by a reassuring thought that flashed into his mind. The launch was well hidden in the shadows back there along the river, and it was not at all likely that any search would be made for it.

The only risk on this score was the chance of contact with, and recognition by Larocque and Bolduc, but these two men here were not Larocque and Bolduc, and from what they had said he gathered that, having now been rendered innocuous, he would be left where he was, and that they were callously indifferent as to what became of him afterward. For the time being then, at least, this meant safety for Germaine, thank God!

The gag in his mouth, distorting his lips and jaws, brought him brutal discomfort; his wrists felt numb where the belt was lashed around them. He strained a little at the lashing ineffectually; but otherwise he made no movement. His eyes fastened on the two men. They were standing within a foot or two of him. Both were armed with what looked like sawed-off shotguns- the butt of one of which he had no doubt, had crashed against his skull not so very long ago. They were silent now, saying nothing—waiting.

His eyes searched past the two men. The power house, which he could still see from where he lay, was, as Bouchard had said, only a few yards away from the club—perhaps 40 at the outside. Trees, rising from the slope of the river bank, showed between the two buildings; but just beyond the power house there was an open space where there were no trees, and it seemed as though he could catch in the moonlight a glimpse of white, tumbling water.

There was no sign of any of the rest of Dollaire's men, nothing to indicate where they might be stationed, for, except for that single open space beyond the power house, the entire clearing was bordered by wooded land.

His glance rested on the two men again for an instant, and then, as though in a sort of premonitory fascination, his eyes fixed and held on the clubhouse in front of him. Details were of no consequence, but he found them registering themselves on his mind in an extraneous sort of way. What difference did it make that the club was built in the style of a bungalow, that it was roomy and large, that it had a veranda on at least the two sides that he could see, and that—

• • •

A LOW whistle came suddenly from somewhere near at hand. It was answered by one of the two men. A form came into view through the trees.

"That you, Paul?" demanded the voice of the man who had called himself Christophe.

"Sure!" replied the newcomer. "It's me for sure. You are all ready, you two, eh?"

"Hell!" It was Baptiste's voice this time, surly with complaint. "How much longer do we wait?"

The newcomer laughed in a sort of ugly mirth.

"Just long enough for me to tell you what you are to do—when you are through here. He has done well, Dollaire. He has—" The man broke off abruptly, and, stepping suddenly forward, peered down at Colin. "Who the devil is this?"

"One of the gang here that we caught on his way over to the club," Christophe answered. "We gave him a little tap on the head to keep him quiet, and then stuffed his mouth and tied him like you see."

"Good!" applauded the man who answered to the name of Paul. "That will be one less to begin with. Now, listen and I will tell you. That fellow Bouchard says that the man named Kenniston who runs the club, and another man named Lazarre, are the only ones in the clubhouse over there now, and that the rest are all down below in the power house, so you do not need any more men here. Bouchard is not sure, but he thinks there may be some way to get out of the power house from down below. So Dollaire is putting some of the boys on guard amongst the trees all the way down to the river on both sides of the power house. You understand eh?"

"Sure!" approved Christophe tersely. "And then Dollaire and the rest smash in the power-house door, eh? What did I tell you, Baptiste? That Dollaire, there, he is like the fox!"

"Let Paul talk," grunted Baptiste. "He is not through yet!"

"No," said Paul. "Listen! When Dollaire and the rest of us creep up to the power house and just as we rush the door, Dollaire will fire a shot or two. When they hear that, the two men in the clubhouse will come running out, and—"

"Damn!" Baptiste swore grittily. "They will not run far!"

"That is the reason you are here." Paul chuckled evilly. "Very well, when you are sure they will not run far, you, Christophe, will go with the boys that are on guard among the trees on the right-hand side, and you, Baptiste, you will go to the left side. That is where we will need good shots if the rat trap has a hole in it. That's all! In two or three minutes now—as soon as I get back to Dollaire—and then it will be a big night!"

The man was gone.

• • •

"I WILL take the one that comes out first," announced Baptiste gruffly.

"Good," agreed Christophe. "That is all right for me."

Colin's eyes roved in a hunted way around the clearing. Queer the shapes and movements that the trees took on in the moonlight! No not trees! Those weren't trees - they were crouched forms of men moving swiftly out from the edge of the trees and heading toward the power house. There seemed to be a great many of them.

Lazarre! The abysmal irony of it! A chill horror gripped at his heart. He had not come here to warn Lazarre—he had come here to see Lazarre die. Over there—as Lazarre stepped out on the veranda, "X marks the spot." Savagery tore at Colin's soul. What made him think of that? Like some reproduction of the scene where the butchery took place, and the body—

A shot rang out from the direction of the power house—another—and still another. Colin felt the blood drain from his face as his eyes fixed again on the front door of the clubhouse. He did not want to look, but he could not drag his eyes away now from that door.

Subconsciously he was aware that the two men had moved out into the clearing and subconsciously he was aware that there was movement, noise, turmoil in front of the power house -but his eyes did not leave the clubhouse door.

The door was suddenly flung open. The light from the interior streamed out and made a path across the veranda. Framed in the doorway stood a tall, fair-haired man. Colin's brain became on the instant strangely clear, strangely incisive, as though it were something that was no part of himself, but was a machine which, though it functioned with precision, was immune from emotion.

That was not Lazarre. That was Kenniston. Lazarre was dark. That was Lazarre standing there in his shirt sleeves on the threshold just behind Kenniston. And now Kenniston moved—out across the veranda toward the steps—and the roar of gunfire beat at Colin's eardrums.

He saw Kenniston spin halfway around, topple, then pitch head foremost down the steps and lie there motionless, his head on the bottom step, his feet stretched grotesquely upward to the edge of the veranda.

He saw Lazarre's hand reach out to the jamb of the door as though snatching at it for support, then wriggle downward, while his body crumpled up on the threshold—and became an inert heap.

He saw two forms, that his impersonal brain told him were Christophe and Baptiste, run forward to examine their handiwork, evidently satisfied, separate, and one run one way and one run another across the clearing.

It was the end of the chase. The end of Lazarre. Colin closed his eyes.

To Be Continued.

Just Things

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

Weak Sisters

"YOU could do it if you really wanted to." was all the sympathy the poor soul got as she bemoaned the consumption of a huge apple dumpling with cream, when "for her own good" she knew she should have chosen some nice crisp celery with dressingless tomatoes for a change. A "foodery" where viands conducive to slenderness only would be served would help out just oodles and then perhaps the chap that could pinch hit any time for Paul Whiteman and the dames, who gazes with something akin to envy at the perfect 36s wouldn't fall for a three-deck cake smothered in cocoanut and noodles and scrambled eggs.

• • •

Long Shots

THERE'S more than one way of beating -om- one else to a bargain, that is if you're a good gambler. An ad in a newspaper recently regarding the sale of electric washing machines, read like Santa Claus was in town and naturally interested the guiding hands in some hundred or so homes. The hour of the sale found plenty of customers, elated at the price but dismayed to find only a few machines for sale. Taking a long shot on the bargain, one of the customers elbowed her way to the manager, put her money on the board and announced that she would take one of the washers, (sight unseen) while the rest of the women were weighing pro and con the merits of the purchase.

• • •

Rocks

EVERY dog has his day and every cat his night is a pretty true saying so, no one is surprised to find the lowly rock back into its own after years of being relegated to old wells and otherwise helping to fill in ditches and unwanted ponds. Who doesn't remember the feeling of having done at least one good deed in a day when they carted a rock or two off the premises, putting it where it would never be seen. And look at them now, folks even travel miles, after getting "wind" of a particularly fine rock, to tote it home for the "rock garden." And who knows but that some time the lowly and much despized dandelion will be discovered as being a hotsy-totsy member of the flower family.

Homemaker's Question Box

Question—Do you have some suggestions which will help prolong the life of my electric heating appliances?

Answer—None of the ordinary metals are suitable for use for the heating element of an electric appliance because they oxidize readily at high temperatures and rapidly deteriorate. The alloys used for the heating elements will stand very high temperatures for relatively long periods, but even so there are limits to the length of their useful life. Try to make the heating element in your appliance last longer by turning off the current as soon as you are through using the appliance, for each minute that the current flows needlessly not only costs money - increased electric bills, but decreases the useful life of the appliance.

Generally the heating element in the form of a rather fine wire or ribbon, wound on a mica frame or other suitable insulators. Care should be taken that no mechanical injury is done the mica. In cleaning do not use a stiff brush or cloth on the heating element for this may break the wire, stretch it out of shape so that adjacent parts will touch, causing a short circuit. The blower or suction attachment of your vacuum sweeper is a good thing with which to clean the open element on the range.

These appliances having the heating element concealed, as the flat iron, percolator, waffle iron etc should never be immersed in water for this may seriously damage the element.

The flat iron, without thermostat control, should only be left with the current turned on long enough to maintain proper working temperature. If the iron stands idle with the heat turned on it gets hotter and hotter until that point is reached where the element is damaged.

PRE-SCHOOL EYE CLINIC ANNOUNCED BY LOCAL EYESIGHT SPECIALIST

Dr. W. A. Dennis to Conduct School Children Eye Examinations August 20th to September 1st.

Parents of children of school age are being invited by Dr. W. A. Dennis to bring their youngsters in for complete eye examinations during the two weeks before the school term begins. According to the announcement sent out by Dr. Dennis, certain hours of the day have been set aside for this work and the examination is made without charge if the youngster is brought in during these hours between 9:00 A. M. and 11:00 A. M.

"We have long recognized the value of the pre-school teeth and general health examinations," explained Dr. Dennis, "but the importance of an eye examination for school children has not been stressed enough. When you consider that 80% to 85% of our mental impressions reach us through the eyes, it is quickly realized that youngsters of school age who are using their eyes so much over books should protect those eyes in every way possible. A pre-school eye examination is essential to catch any minor eye defects which can thus be corrected before they develop and possibly handicap the youngster in his studies during the year."

According to Dr. Dennis, he expects quite a few school children in during the special Clinic. To prevent long waits in the office he suggests that an appointment be made beforehand. He will personally conduct the Clinic, he says, and a report of each case will be submitted to the parent or parents.

Dr. Dennis, who has been located for several years in Marion, has his offices at 207 W. Center St.

Given in Marriage

BY ADELE GARRISON

Noel and Mary, dressed in the clothes of Mr. and Mrs Ticer, make a last effort to avoid the wedding party.

MARY PUT her hands to her head a gesture of exasperation as Katy told her that she never would be able to fool the young people who were trailing the bridal party, if she wore her new traveling hat above Mrs. Ticer's old coat.

"What a dumb coot I turned out to be!" she said, whipping off the offending hat and gazing at it menacingly. "Luckily, it's one of those things it won't hurt to fold."

She tucked the hat in the folds of Mrs. Ticer's coat, which enveloped her, and looked appealingly at the elder woman.

"May I wear your hat, too?" she asked. "Oh! How dear of you!"

For Mrs. Ticer was already taking down from a hook upon the wall the comfortable but somewhat shapeless old felt hat which she wears to work. She walked back to Mary with it and pressed the hat down over her dusky hair.

"Turn around," she demanded. Then, as Mary obeyed, she gave a delighted chuckle.

"Isn't she the spittin' image of me from the back?" she asked joyously.

The resemblance in figure stuffed out as Mary was with Mrs. Ticer's sweater, was indeed remarkable and I said so with decision.

"Watch me!" Mary said and walked across the room in so lifelike an imitation of Mrs Ticer's gait that our laughter was punctuated with astonished little gasps.

"Perfect!" I ejaculated.

"Marvelous!" Noel said with shining eyes. And Mary swept us a bow.

"You're pretty nifty, yourself," she told Noel, who had invested himself, with Mr Ticer's help in the older man's long raincoat and old slouch hat.

Mary Says Goodby

"You haven't time for compliments," I warned. "You must start at once. Remember, the car is just behind the barn, and Jerry is watching this door so as to start it when he sees you come out."

Noel started for the door, but Mary waited to throw her arms around me, clinging to me as she had done to Marion.

"Goodby, dearest and best of aunties," she murmured then gave me a warm tremulous kiss and hastily followed Noel, throwing back over her sholuder exuberant little goodbys and thanks to Katie and the Ticers as she went.

She grabbed Noel by the arm just as he was opening the door.

"Walk just as much like Mr. Ticer as you can," she adjured him, then she tossed back a reminder to Katie.

All ready, Katie?" she inquired. "Don't forget, when we're about 10 feet from the door, Noel, remember you go first."

I caught back a smile at Mary's recognition of the manner in which the Ticer's always walked. Mr. Ticer invariably stalking along a few feet in advance of his wife.

Safely Away

"All right," Noel said "Goodby, everybody!"

His voice was perfunctorily courteous, but mechanical, and I knew that he was practically moving as in a trance, with but one obsessing though—to get Mary safely away before Avis Arlen should have a chance to make any further mischief.

But Mary was keyed up to concert pitch. "What a radio announcer my husband turned out to be," she gibed. "Let us hope he'll be able to say 'Heigh-ho, everybody,' just as musically when we get back. Now Noel, open the door!"

Noel obeyed her, and passed out in front of her. She whispered something to him as he passed, and I guessed that it was a second reminder to walk like Mr. Ticer. At any rate, he went down the path, simulating Mr. Ticer's gait in creditable fashion—he has not his histrionic heritage in vain—and Mary came plodding after him so like Mrs. Ticer that I almost turned my head to make sure that, by some unexpected metamorphosis, they had not exchanged roles.

Katie stepped into the open doorway as they left.

"Mrs. Ticer!" she called shrilly, just as I saw Bill and Hank running toward us from Noel's old car.

YOUNG PRO LEADING IN CANADIAN OPEN

Youth Paces Field of Star American Professionals, Including Gene Sarazen.

By The Associated Press

TORONTO, Aug 19—Twenty four-year old Bobby Alston, to the surprise of all, stood today a slim bulwark against the might of a band of United States professionals who for 14 straight years have carried away the Canadian open golf championship

Unnoticed when the 72 hole medal competition started two days ago, the quiet young professional from Ottawa headed a brilliant field by the margin of one stroke as 89 players, all within 20 strokes of his 142 stroke total for the first 36 holes entered the final 36 holes today.

Alston shot two steady rounds of 71 each, a stroke under par, as he paced a field that included Gene Sarazen, recent winner of the P. G. A title at Milwaukee, Willie Goggin of San Francisco who lost to Sarazen in the final, Ralph Guldahl of St. Louis Harry Cooper of Chicago, defending champion, Leo Diegel from Agua Caliente, four times Canadian open title holder C Ross Somerville, U S amateur champion George Von Elm, Norton Smith Johnny Farrell and Joe Kirkwood

Change Suggested

SOFTBALL fans will be interested to learn that Mayor W. C Phillians was approached recently with the suggestion that he step in and name a municipal commission to govern softball here in place of the present type of board the members of which are named each spring by the managers and captains of the various teams.

Far more interesting, however, than the fact such a suggestion has been made is the announcement that Mayor Phillians has turned thumbs down on the proposal at least for the present. A talk with the mayor brings to light the fact that he does not take very kindly to such a move and has no intention of doing anything about it at the present

Doing Pretty Well

WHILE the present system of operating softball here may not be letter perfect I do not believe the naming of a municipal commission would solve any problems. It would I am certain, add complications to an already difficult task Governing a game which has the tremendous following which softball has in Marion is beset with hazards The present board has made and is making an honest effort to keep the game riding on an even keel It has made some errors in the past and may make some more in the future The fact, however that softball has been going on for 11 years in the city and has been gaining additional interest each season is evidence enough that the present moguls are doing a fairly competent job I believe it would be in the best interest of the game to reduce the number of members on the present commission But to scrap the present board in favor of a political commission would be sheer folly.

The Best Answer

SOFTBALL continues to be the No 1 sport in Marion This fact has been amply demonstrated—if any demonstration was needed—by the games played here in the last three days When the Huber Manufacturing company and the Gasco club met Wednesday 1,700 fans jammed Lincoln park and the din they raised when the Huber threatened to "knock off" the league leaders proved they were not there just to pass the time Yesterday another 1,900 flocked to the North side park to see the Gasco and Erie Traffic club lock horns Those two crowds, along with those which are almost certain to parade to Lincoln park for the rest of the championship games this season are the best answer I can think of to a question I was asked just the other day—"Do you think softball is losing its hold in Marion?"

No Protest Filed

SEVERAL requests have come to this desk concerning persistent reports that the United Brethren Sunday school softball team filed a protest against the defeat early this week by the Epworth Seniors Reports notwithstanding the United Brethren did not file an official protest against the defeat

CINCINNATIAN SEEKS THIRD NET TROPHY

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI O, Aug. 19—Fighting for a third straight victory and permanent possession of the trophy cup, Paul Kunkel of Cincinnati today faced an old foe in the semi-final men's singles of the Ohio valley tennis championships

Kunkel is opposed by Arnold Simons of Louisville, national public parks champion, who eliminated him in the fourth round of the tri-state tournament here in June

The defending titlist swept into the semi finals yesterday by defeating Joe O'Brien, one-armed 18-year-old sensation of Fort Thomas, Ky 6-2, 6-3 He has a clean slate of having lost not one set in the tournament Simons turned back two Cincinnatians yesterday

Hungary has required that imports of weighing and measuring apparatus and containers must be officially tested and stamped if approved immediately upon entry

NUNAMAKER HOLDS HORSESHOE CROWN

LAKESDE, O, Aug 19—Without a defeat in 41 games, Blair Nunamaker crowned himself Ohio state horseshoe pitching champion again this year.

He won 19 straight games in the elimination round and added 22 more victories in the finals

Ray Brown of Springfield won the runner-up position with 17 wins and 5 losses and Robert Haley of Springfield was third with 16 and 6 L. E Pudder of Geneva won 15 and lost 7 for fourth

Carl Hoff of Lewisburg and James Cash of Cleveland each won 13 and lost 9 and were billed for a play-off for fifth place today.

GIANTS PREPARE TO BATTLE FOUR LEADING RIVALS FOR PENNANT

Must Face Chicago, Pittsburgh, St Louis and Boston in Succession.

By The Associated Press

The New York Giants having painstakingly built up a five game lead in the National league pennant struggle and having convinced a majority of the fans that they are "the" team of the circuit this season, are about to put their pretensions to the acid test

In the next couple of weeks, beginning with today's game against the Chicago Cubs the Giants have to take on all the other pennant contenders, Chicago, Pittsburgh St Louis and Boston, in rapid succession When that seige is over they can be definitely catalogued as either a champion ball club or just a bunch of players who went a lot further than expected

Giants Beat Reds

The Giants knocked off the lowly Cincinnati Reds for the third straight time 4 to 1, adding a half game to their margin over Pittsburgh, which was idle

Today they were to open against the third place Cubs who far from being "softened" in their series with the Boston Braves, came back to win the last game 4 to 3

The American league contented to feature the Washington Senators and their turn lead in the lead as Joe Cronin's crew came back from the edge of defeat to beat the Chicago White Sox 6-4 in 10 innings and hold their 7 game lead over the New York Yankees But the Cleveland Indians tossed in a little added interest by capturing third place from Philadelphia's Athletics by a single percentage point

Indians in Third

The Indians turned back the Boston Red Sox 2 to 1 on the strength of Mel Harder's five hit pitching The Detroit Tigers staged a four run rally in the sixth, batting clear around at the expense of Roy Mahaffey and Dick Barrett, and shoved the Philadelphia Athletics down with a 7 to 6 triumph Jimmie Foxx's thirty-sixth home run and Mickey Cochrane's twelfth kept the A's in the game

The Yankees had one big inning as they defeated the St Louis Browns 8 to 3 to square their series. They cut loose with all kinds of hitting against Wally Hebert and Hank McDonald in the fourth batted around and a little more and scored all eight runs

SOFTBALL BOARD TO MEET MONDAY NIGHT

Little World Series Managers Asked To Attend Commission Session.

With taree champions named and a fourth to be named Monday, a meeting of the city softball commission has been called for Monday at 8 p m. to make final plans for the Little World series No date has been set for the start of the series and it is not certain whether it will be started next week or held over until the following Monday. It is believed likely, however, that it will be started on eighter Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

The Kappa fraternity of the Commercial league, the Gasco club of the Industrial and the Presbyterians of the No. 1 Sunday school loop are three teams which are certain to compete. The fourth will be either First Reformed or the Epworth Seniors of the No. 2 Sunday school circuit. These two teams will meet Monday at 6 p m to decide the champpionship.

The managers of the Gasco, Kappas and Presbyterians and either First Reformed or Epworth, depending on who wins Monday, are asked to be on hand for the commission meeting to make drawings for the first game

TAKING SHORT CUT TO VICTORY

Shorts seem to be taking the tennis world by storm, as witness Betty Nuthall, British star (left), and Helen Jacobs, United States national champion, in the natty attire they adopted for playing in the national championships at Forest Hills, L. FOXX CONTINUES TO HOLD HITTING PACE BUT OTHERS SLUMP

Simmons Slips Badly; Hafey and Kuhel Make Big Gains.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Aug 19—Jimmie Foxx continued to whack the ball in a big way during the past week.

While his leading American league rival Al Simmons, was taking a few severe blows in the region of the batting averages and Chuck Klein, National league leader, and most of the others were suffering the same misfortune Chick Hafey of Cincinnati and Joe Kuhel of Washington kept going right along with Foxx

The Athletic star slammed out 17 hits in 40 times at bat to hoist his average seven points to .363 in the week which ended with yesterday's games This gave him a margin of 14 points over Simmons The Chicagoan hit only seven times in 26 attempts and his mark dropped to 349 Heinie Manush of Washington the third man, fared as poorly

Hit Four Homers

In addition to his collections of base hits Foxx clouted four home runs, to bring his total up to 36, and batted in 22 runs for a total of 126

Klein evened the National league count against Wally Berger of Boston by socking his 20th homer and held first place in his circuit in hits, doubles, and runs batted in, but he only had six safeties in 25 times at bat to show for his week's work and his average dropped eight points to 372 His team mate, Spud Davis, and Bill Terry of the Giants wound up in a second place tie at 344, losing two and nine points, respectively.

Somewhat further down on the lists, Hafey and Kuhel, neither of whom could make the first 10 a week ago registered 12 point gains. Hafey hit 14 times in 29 attempts for a .319 mark while Kuhel connected for 13 blows in 24 times up to finish with a .323 average.

USE Richey's Pile Remedy and you will be glad. Dan Gifford of Rellefontaine says he used it over 30 years ago, never had piles since.

BLOOD turns to water and nerves start to wither away. The Brain functions in a retarded manner, the complexion takes on an unnatural hue. These above symptoms are some of the hideous symptoms of Pernecious Aenemia. If unchecked its demotalizing effect on a person is ghastly. While there are several kinds of Aenemia that are not so appreheusive, there is no positive or permanent cure yet found for the Pernecious kind. DIAMOND BLOOD CAPSULES (Lower's) we recommend as one of the surest of all Blood products sold to tone the blood to Normal. Recommended and sold by Lower's Pharmacy, Center and Leader Sts.

PONCE DE LEON NEVER FOUND THE FOUNTAIN OF LIFE (the cure for auto intoxication. Philosophers, Scientists, Chemists have for ages sought in vain for a reliable BODILY ELIMINANT of SELF POISONING (AUTO-INTOXICATION). So called mineral waters and fakers with their herbal compounds soon become ancient history of so called failures. Youth would never turn into old age. If a perfect cure was ever found and OLD AGE would rapidly turn back to YOUTH. Among many symptoms that indicate one having chronic AUTO INTOXICATION; Eyes become dim, Hearing is dulled, Gait unsteady, Skin becomes unnatural in color and Wrinkles appear. If above symptoms come on rapidly, just a few years of LIFE can be expected. The patient in time becomes so clogged with INTERNAL FILTH that they usually die with Heart Trouble, Paralysis, Apoplexy, or Bright's disease. Often they become chronic sufferers of Arthritis, Rheumatism or Neuritis. There is hope in LOWER'S HEPATIC TRITICUM. People come for miles around for this remedy. After using it eyes become clear, hearing improved, as one customer said "It was like coming out of a cave into sunlight" (perfect health). Our claim on HEPATIC TRITICUM in our observation is the best ELIMINANT of AUTO INTOXICATION now sold on the American market. Sold by LOWER'S PHARMACY, Center and Leader st.

BUYING SENDS WHEAT HIGHER

Prices Mount Quickly at Chicago as Brokers Make Heavy Purchases.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Aug 19 Big concentrated buying that totaled far up into millions of bushels boosted wheat higher and higher in the last hour today. Topmost prices reached same shortly before the close.

One broker alone took upward of 5,000,000 bushels. In the past, he has often represented United States government financed corporations, and it was popularly conjectured that his buying today was for a possible deal with the Orient on government account. Pit gossip was to the effect that a considerable amount of grain recently pressing on the market had been absorbed.

Profit taking caused some reaction at the last, and wheat closed unsettled 3/8@3/8 cents above yesterday's finish, corn 3/4@3/4 up, oats 1/4@1/4 advanced, and provisions showing 10 to 30 cents gain.

Early Buyers Save Money
The latest charts show a gradual rise in prices toward the 1910-1914 level The apparent goal is a climb to the 1924-1926 average.
What has been most pleasing to the administration is a comparative leveling off of prices during the recent climb. In other words, those which fell farthest, such as farm commodities, had risen higher and those which fell least rose the least.

Just a thought of sweet remembrance.
Just a memory fond and true,
Just a token of affection,
And a heartache still for you,
Just a sigh for olden moments,
Just a smile of love anew,
Just a tear in silence falling,
And a yearning just for you.
We loved him, yes we loved him,
But the angels loved him more,
And they have sweetly called him,
To yonder shining shore
